"Dickens' Day," proved to be a very pleasant and instructive afternoon at the New Century Club. The afternoon was in charge of Miss Ethel Brady, and extracts from Dickens' were read by Miss Brady, Mrs. Eliza C. Green, and Miss Helen Brady. The program for next Tuesday will be "Lecture," Rev. Francis H. Moore, D. D., Germany, Tex.

Several hundred misdirected letters reach the postoffice each year. They are advertised and 90 per cent. of them never reach their destination. Ninety-nine per cent. of the trouble can't be remedied if correspondents would use stationery with their name and address plainly printed in the corner of the envelope. THE TRANSCRIBER is prepared to turn out high-grade work at short notice.

A community is generally judged by the advertising columns of its newspaper. A thrifty business community is always well advertised, and the absence of this proof of thrifh from the columns of the paper, is taken as an indication that it is a hundredd sort of a town in which it would scarcely pay to make investments.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen B. Tasker, of Wynwood, Pa., have been spending a few days with friends here. The names of Mr. and Mrs. Tasker may recall a memory of the attempt this young couple made in 1906, to cross the unexplored part of Labrador to Ungava. They succeeded in making the trip, with the aid of two dog teams. After leaving the "Post" and entering this unknown wilderness of the North, nothing was heard of Mr. and Mrs. Tasker for several months.

Concerning the second presentation by our young Thespian of the "Elopement of Ellen" which took place in the Opera House Friday evening last, with the same cast. THE TRANSCRIBER wishes to re-affirm with added emphasis every one of its complimentary comments and regrets that want of space forbids a well deserved lengthier mention. Why not don your socks and have a fly at bigger game, ye youthful devotees of Comedy? Of course they had another big and appreciative audience Friday night!
